Dear All,

Great news, I have found suitable buyers for Tropical Energy Solutions.

The new owners are committed to continue to supply the great service, products and solutions that you have come to expect from Tropical Energy Solutions. They believe in the business, industry, and lifestyle that we have operated in, and offered to our clientele for the past 10 years. The new owners have been clients of mine for the last 8 years and live and breathe a sustainable off grid lifestyle. They, like me will continue to offer the same tried and tested advice and products that you have come to expect from Tropical Energy Solutions.

So what does this mean moving forward? We are currently working through the legal aspect of the transition and both parties are committed to a quick and hassle free change over to ensure the least amount of disturbance to our customers. Tropical Energy Solutions will continue to operate in a somewhat reduced capacity through this time but we would like to reiterate that this will be short lived and new enquiries are very much welcomed.

This good news however could not dull the call of the road and I will still be continuing with my plans to travel through the month of March. So for this brief period the office will be unattended and while I cannot guarantee my phone reception we would ask that new enquiries be submitted via email to ensure that you will get a prompt response from either myself or the new owners.

So in conclusion, great news all around. We appreciate you understanding and patience through the transition period.

I know the new owners look forward to helping you find practical, sustainable, and affordable energy solutions well into the future.

Yours Sincerely
